74th BUY OR BID SALE

The Closing Date is Nov. 4, 1992

ALL COINS AND ANTIQUITIES
GUARANTEED GENUINE

WE STILL CHARGE
NO BUYERS FEES

VISA MASTERCARD AMERICAN EXPRESS

Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. has presented an innovation in antiquities and numismatics for some time now. The system is simple. When you want an antiquity or coin in the sale, just bid the estimated price by phone or mail. We will send you the antiquity or coin immediately. No waiting for the closing of the sale. Any and all antiquities or coins not sold before the closing date will be sent to the highest bidder on November 4, 1992.

EXAMPLE—You bid estimate on an item valued at $100.00 and if your bid is the 1st to reach us, you will receive the item immediately. If on the other hand, you bid $75.00 on the same item and are still the high bidder at the end of the sale, the item will be mailed to you on the closing date, November 4, 1992.

If you are ever in the area, stop in and see us! Of course, it's best to call first.

125. ATTIC ATHENS; 520-490 BC, Tetradrachm, 17.52g; Ex M & M #6 (1946)664. This coin has an incredible obverse in that the entire head of Athena, the crest of the helmet as well as the base of the helmet is all on the flan. Of the thousands of Athenian tetradrachms of this early period that were struck, only the coincidence of the large flan and a small die would ever produce a rare combination such as this. Usually not even a complete face of Athena is present, let alone the complete obverse motif. Reverse is weakly struck as usual. EF/VF . . . . . 6500

- ROMAN usurper. Clodius Macer was the Governor of Africa under Nero, and after the death of Nero assumed the title of Augustus for a brief period. Clodius Macer refused to accept Galba. In retaliation he threatened the Roman corn supply from Africa while pouring additional energy into raising a new legion which he named Legio I Macriana Liberatrix, but he was easily overcome and put to death by Galba. Coins of Clodius Macer stand as one of the greatest rarities in the Roman series and one of the only early Roman usurpers to strike coins after the imperial period until the mid 3rd century AD.

Coins 348-355 are of the usurper Theodore Mankaphas. Somewhere around 15 coins were known of this entire reign. They are so rare that they were not even listed by Sear but Grierson plates them and writes about them in his 1982 volume "Byzantine Coins". We purchased these 8 coins from a recent find which brings the total count of the existing coinage of Theodore Mankaphas to about 60 pieces.

652. The Twelve Caesars

653. The Adoptive Emperors

653

"HOC SIGNO VICTOR ERIS"

Upon the death of Constans (337-350 AD), at the hands of Magnentius, the troops at Illyria were undecided as to whether to continue their allegiance to the house of Constantine in the person of Constantius II or to declare for the usurper Magnentius. As Constantius II was in the east fighting the Persians it seemed the decision was to go against the absent emperor if not for the intervention of the emperors sister Constantina. She convinced the commander of Illyria, one Vetranio to declare himself Augustus to save and hold the empire for Constantius II. This was done March 1, of 350 AD.

This brief reign created the first overtly Christian coin type of the Roman empire and displayed Vetranio's support for the house of Constantine. This type depicts Constantine the Great being crowned by a victory carrying a palm while holding a standard bearing a  $\chi\rho$  Chi-Rho. \* The legend reads "HOC SIGNO VICTOR ERIS" which means "by this sign thou shalt conquer." The whole type refers to the vision which Constantine the Great saw before the battle of the Milvian Bridge in 312 AD where he defeated Maxentius. This type then illustrates the event that convinces Constantine to make Christianity the state religion, thus changing world history.

Vetranio also produced another type "CONCORDIA MILITVM", which means harmony between the soldiers, which depicts an \*\*emperor holding two labara each of which have a  $\chi\rho$  Chi-Rho in their center. Our stand-in emperor does another highly unusual thing. He issues these same two coin types in his own name but also in the name of Constantius II to show his support for him. In a move of reverse ancestry the portrait of Constantius II is altered to look like a young Vetranio. Usually a new emperor sometimes resembles the emperor that preceded him on coins, i.e., Early Hadrian portraits resembling Trajan. The Vetranio styled portrait is accomplished by changing the curly hair of Constantius' portrait below his ear to straight and leaving Constantius beardless while Vetranio is bearded.

On December 25, 350 AD Vetranio and Constantius II met at a plain near Serdica where Vetranio abdicated and is given an estate at Prusa in Bithynia where he lived until his death in 356 AD.

*Note: Seaby Roman Coins #4042 erroneously describes this type as Vetranio standing left holding labarum crowned by victory standing behind him. RIC Volume VIII The Family of Constantine I page 44 in describing this seen, " This evocation in the vision of Constantine emphasizes the loyalty of Vetranio to the dynasty.

**Note: In this case one emperor depicted on the reverse could easily be Constantine the Great, Constantius II, or Vetranio, because of the unusal circumstances surrounding Vetranios elevation.

FIXED PRICE ITEMS

We have both types of these very rare Vetranio coins issued in the name of Constantius. We have seen these advertised for as much as $250 and $385 respectively. Our price for both in equivalent or better condition is $450.

654. For the two different coin types of this issue Ric-286 and Ric-273 ..... $450

We also have EF examples of the HOC SIGNO VICTOR ERIS type that were struck by Vetranio in his own name at the mint of Siscia, Ric-285. We only have enough coins for the first five customers that order this combination, a Vetranio along with the two afore mentioned issues that he issued in the name of Constantius II. To reiterate you would receive three coins for $1000.

655. For the three different coin types; Ric-285, Ric-286, Ric-273 .....$1000

656. BRONZE BULL FINIAL; Central Anatolia, Alaca Hüyük, Pre-Hittite, 2300-2200 BC, Early Bronze Period. Height 3 1/2", Length 4 1/2". To quote: "The famous 'royal tombs' (thirteen shaft burials), which are broadly contemporary with the 'treasures' of Troy II g, give us some idea of the opulence of the town. The material found in these tombs --abstract symbols, discs decorated with swastikas, statuettes, cult standards, figurines of animals like the stag and the bull, and a variety of objects of gold, silver, electrum, bronze and iron throw light not only on the art of the people who lived in central Anatolia in this period but on their social life and religious beliefs. Some of the themes found here - for example the bull and stag - were later to become symbols associated with the gods of the Hittites: a fact which is of some significance in other respects."

It has an undisturbed olive to light green patina, it is quite remarkable that such a seemingly angular bull which we should expect to not balance on its comparatively small base, balances perfectly. This is a tribute to the great artistic ability of these early artists. Bulls such as this were a symbol of strength and fertility and were highly prized then as they are today. Exceedingly rare they sometimes come with silver horns when found in royal tombs.

This is certainly a minor treasure from the history of man's beginnings which without any doubt not only influenced the Hittites but reached into the 20th century to strongly influence artists like Pablo Picasso who were thought to be great inventive geniuses but in many cases were only copyists of these people . . . . . 17,500
